TRACKER 1
SLIDE THE RULER

Fruit never moves to age. Each piece stays in the column it was bought into, and a ruler slides past it one column a night. The letter on the ruler above a piece is how fresh it is.

PRINT AND CUT

- Stall sheet (page 2, A4 landscape): one for each stall.
- Market board (page 3, A4 landscape): one. It takes the place of the fruit boxes on the market mat.
- Rulers (page 4): cut out one for each stall and one for the market. Card is best.
- Keep your fruit pieces, shutters, price tags, counters (for cash and price tags) and all the cards.

SET UP

Lay each ruler on its track with its right edge on column 1. Stand your shutter on the first black line. On day 1 everything goes into column 1.

A DAY

1. Morning. Unload the lorry onto the market board in today's column: the column under the right edge of the market's ruler. Fruit that arrives older (the Seconds Lorry's Okay fruit, a ripe mango) goes in the column under the right-most letter it arrives as.
2. Buy. Take a piece from the market board. Put it in the same column number on your shelf, in that fruit's row. Fruit from earlier days is already there, further left. Do not touch it.
3. Stock. Behind your shutter, slide the pieces you want to sell straight forward from the shelf row to the crate row of the same fruit, in the same column. A piece under G cannot go in the crate. A piece left in the crate from yesterday may stay or slide back.
4. Bell. Flip your price tags. Move your shutter back to the second black line: your crate shows, your shelf stays hidden. To read a piece, look up its column to the ruler, in that fruit's row.
5. Rush. Sell as now. The oldest piece that is fresh enough goes first: that is the one furthest left.
6. After the rush. Shutter back to the first line. Unsold pieces stay where they are.
7. Night. Every stall and the market slide the ruler one column right, together, where everyone can see. Then throw away any piece under × or left of the ruler (a Juice Bar juices up to two of them).

SPECIAL NIGHTS AND CARDS

- Heatwave: slide two columns. Monsoon Downpour: do not slide.
- Shade Cloth: before the rulers slide, Pak Din moves his pieces of the named fruit as many columns right as the ruler will slide.
- Fridge: move each of your ripe pieces one column right, but never past the right-most F of its fruit. Green pieces stay.
- Health Inspector: count your pieces under S.

What to watch in the test: did anyone put fruit in the wrong column? Could rivals read your crate from across the table? Did every ruler slide, once?
